is among the 536 bankers taking part in the 70th annual two-week session of the Graduate School of Banking at Louisiana State University. Classes got underway May 19 and will continue through May 31, 2019 with courses covering all aspects of banking, economics and related subjects. Students traveled from twenty-one states and Mexico to participate in this Session.

Sponsored by 15 southern state bankers associations in cooperation with the Division of Continuing Education at LSU, the banking school requires attendance on campus for three years, with extensive bank study assignments between sessions. The faculty consists of bankers, business and professional leaders, and educators from all parts of the U.S.

During their three summer sessions at the Graduate School of Banking, students receive 190 hours of classroom instruction, planned evening study, and final examinations at the end of each session.
